4 READING

a Read the article once and put the headings in the correct place.

A Can I eat apples?

B How can I prevent serious illnesses?

C How should I start the day?

D Do I really need to eat five a day?

The truth about healthy eating

Food experts are always telling us what we should and shouldn't eat, but they often give us different advice. Our food writer, Teresa Gold, has had a look at all the information to work out what is fact and what is fiction.

1 C

A full-English breakfast will certainly stop you feeling hungry, but it's high in calories which means that you'll put on weight if you have it regularly. A healthier option is to have just the egg. Boil it instead of frying it, and eat it with a piece of toast made with brown bread. Breakfast cereals are very high in sugar, so if you feel like cereal, have muesli – with no added sugar. You can also get your first vitamins of the day by drinking a glass of freshly-squeezed orange juice.

2 _____

Fruit and vegetables contain the vitamins and minerals we need to stay healthy. But five is actually a fictional number thought up by an American nutritionist. She looked at what the average person ate and doubled it. According to more recent research, the right number is actually eight. The research shows that people who have eight pieces of fruit and vegetables a day are much less likely to suffer from heart disease than those who eat three.

3 _____

This particular fruit has had some bad publicity because dentists say it can harm our teeth. While it's true that apples do contain a little sugar, they are also a source of fibre. Nutritionists say that we need about 18g of fibre a day, and a medium apple – peel included – contains about 3g. Some varieties contain more fibre than others, so you should choose carefully.

4 _____

The key to good health is a balanced diet which contains fats and carbohydrates as well as proteins, vitamins, and minerals. Fats may be high in calories, but they also contain vitamins. According to the World Cancer Research Fund, you should only have about 500g of red meat per week – a steak is about 100g. One type of food on its own won't kill or cure you, but eating the right amount of the right food will stop you getting ill.

b Read the article again. Mark the sentences T (true) or F (false).

- 1 A full-English breakfast every morning isn't good for you. T
- 2 The best breakfast is any type of cereal. —
- 3 An American nutritionist carefully calculated the amount of fruit and vegetables we should eat. —
- 4 We should eat more than five pieces of fruit and vegetables per day. —
- 5 Apples contain a lot of sugar. —
- 6 All apples have the same amount of fibre. —
- 7 Fats can be good for us. —
- 8 You can eat as much red meat as you want to. — c Look at the highlighted words and phrases. What do you think they mean? Use your dictionary to look up their meaning and pronunciation.

5 LISTENING

a iChecker Listen to a radio phone-in programme about the article in exercise 4. Tick (✓) the caller(s) who completely agree with it.

- |           |                          |         |                          |
|-----------|--------------------------|---------|--------------------------|
| A William | <input type="checkbox"/> | C Harry | <input type="checkbox"/> |

b Listen again and answer the questions.

Which caller...?

- 1 thinks that some fruit and vegetables are unhealthy —
- 2 says that most children prefer fast food —

- 4 is very healthy because he/she eats a lot of fruit and vegetables —

5 READING

- a Read the article once. Why do the Bedouins prefer to live together in a big family group?

Extreme family ties

Family can be an important part of a person's life, and for some nationalities being close to your family is more important than it is to others. For example, families in Southern Europe are generally quite close, although in the past they spent even more time together. This is also true of families in the Middle East. But it is the Bedouin people who have the closest ties of all.

Traditional Bedouin families live in large tents about half the size of a basketball court. The tents are divided into two sections: the first is for receiving guests in true Bedouin style – they have the reputation of being the world's most generous hosts. Visitors are always served a big meal as soon as they arrive. The second part of the tent is the family's shared kitchen, living room, dining room, and bedroom. They don't have tables and chairs, as the whole family sits on the floor to eat. And instead of beds, everybody sleeps on mattresses, which are piled into a corner of the room during the day.

Several generations usually share the tent. The head of the family is the mother, and she is the one who gives the orders. Her husband and her children live with her, even when the children are married and have their own children. The sons and sons-in-law look after the animals, while the daughters and daughters-in-law clean the tent, cook the meals, and look after the younger grandchildren. The older ones are left to run around outside. There may often be as many as 30 people under the same roof.

The few young people who have left the family to live in the city visit their mothers nearly every day. It can be quite a surprise to see a shiny new Mercedes pull up outside one of the tents and watch a smart young man get out to greet his relatives.

Bedouin people do not like to be separated from their families and there is a very good reason why. If they are poor, sick, old, or unemployed, it is the family that supports them. Elderly people are never left alone, and problems are always shared. Children who work in the city are often responsible for their families financially. In this way, Bedouin families aren't just close; they are a lifeline.

Jazz in New York

New York is famous for its jazz, and for music fans no trip to the city is complete without a visit to one of the many jazz venues. Here are four of the many places you can go to hear jazz being performed.

Barbès

Barbès is a bar and performance venue in the South Slope part of Brooklyn. Come here to listen to musical styles from all over the world, such as Mexican, Lebanese, Romanian, and Venezuelan along with traditional American styles. Usually $10 to get in.

55 Bar

Located in Greenwich Village, this small club, which started in 1919, has a very interesting history. Come to hear jazz guitarists play, and expect to see lots of serious jazz fans and music students from the local universities and music schools. Usually $10–20.

Smalls

This club was created in 1994, but has already become very famous in New York as it saw well-known players such as Norah Jones begin their career here. The club closed in 2002, but opened again in 2004, with a more comfortable room and a website that features live streaming video of all performances. It opens from 4 p.m. to 4 a.m. $20 to get in.

Café Carlyle

Come to the ground floor of the famous Carlyle Hotel to visit the Café Carlyle. It's particularly worth going on Monday nights – not only will you hear jazz from the Eddy Davis New Orleans Jazz Band, but you will also hear the famous film director Woody Allen play with them. As well as being a director, Woody Allen is also a jazz musician. Sets at 9:30. The venue holds only 90 and is often sold out, so it's a good idea to book ahead. ## 4 READING a Read the first chapter of a book about Daniel Suelo once. Where did he decide to live?

- 1 With friends.  3 In the countryside.
2 With family.  4 In a city.

The man who quit money

In the first year of the twenty-first century, a man standing by a busy road in the middle of the United States took his life savings out of his pocket – $30 – laid it inside a phone booth, and walked away. He was 39 years old, came from a good family, and had been to college. He was not mentally ill, nor did he have any problems with drugs or alcohol. The decision was made by a man who knew exactly what he was doing.

In the twelve years since then, as the stock market has risen and fallen, Daniel Suelo has not earned, received, or spent a single dollar. In an era when anyone who could sign his name could get a mortgage, Suelo did not apply for loans. As public debt rose to eight, ten, and finally thirteen trillion dollars, he did not pay taxes, or accept any type of help from the government.

Instead he went to live in a cave in Utah, where he picks fruit and wild onions, collects animals that have been killed on the roads, takes old food that has gone past its sell-by date out of bins, and is often fed by friends and strangers. 'My philosophy is to use only what is freely given or discarded,' he writes. While the rest of us try to deal with taxes, mortgages, retirement plans, and bank accounts, Suelo no longer even has an identity card.

Daniel is not a typical tramp. He often works – but refuses to be paid. Although he lives in a cave, he is extremely social, remains close to friends and family, and has discussions with strangers on his website which he checks at the local library. He has cycled far, travelled on freight trains, hitch-hiked through nearly every state in the United States, worked on a fishing boat, collected mussels from Pacific beaches, caught salmon in streams in Alaska, and spent three months living in a tree after a storm.

'I know it's possible to live with zero money,' Suelo declares. And he says you can live well.

A The Book Bus

Do you enjoy reading? Do you like children? Then why not volunteer for our mobile library service in Zambia? We work with disadvantaged children in state primary schools, and it's a lot of fun. We read stories, do art projects, and organize activities to help the children learn English. After breakfast at 7 a.m., we head to our first school in time for the beginning of the school day. Every morning we visit at least four schools, and we spend about an hour in each one. We get back to camp at around 2 p.m. for lunch, and after that you have the afternoon free to relax, or prepare activities. The project takes place from May to September, and it's open to everyone. Volunteers have to pay for their own flight and make a contribution to the project.

B The Great Orang-utan Project

Are you an animal lover? If you are, then you should come to Kubah National Park in Borneo. We need people to help us look after our orang-utans. Unfortunately, you won't be able to touch the animals, as they are being prepared to be released into the wild, but you'll work very near them. You'll spend your time in the Wildlife Centre repairing the shelters where the orang-utans live, or building new ones. You might have to make a swing, or install some ropes where the animals can play. You'll have your own room in a wooden hut which looks out onto the rainforest. The programme lasts for two or four weeks and it costs £1,280 or £1,865 respectively, excluding flights.

All of the houses have electricity and running water, but you'll have to go to an internet café in Cuzco if you want to go online. You are expected to work from Monday to Friday, and at the weekend you can explore some of the fantastic sights in the region. Please bring your own work clothes.

Stereotypes supported by science

1 _____

Men have a reputation for wearing clothes that don't look good together – if men do look good, it's because their girlfriends or wives have helped them get dressed. Why's that?

Science says: Let's take a look at chromosomes – the parts of our DNA that control many things about us. The colour red is carried only by the X chromosome. Women have two X chromosomes, and so they are more likely to be able to see red. Men only have one X chromosome. How we see colour depends on the ability to see red, blue, and green, so women are more likely to see colours better. Being able to see colours well was important in prehistoric times when women looked for fruit for food. They had to be able to tell the difference between the types of fruit on the trees so that they didn't choose a type that was poisonous. For them, seeing different colours meant they could survive.

Most men have a natural ability to read maps while women usually need to turn them round. How come?

Science says: Men are able to see the size and position of things much quicker than women. This ability is called 'spatial awareness'. Researchers discovered in a study of four-year-old children that only one girl has this ability for every four boys. Once again, the explanation can be found in the past. Do you remember those prehistoric women? Well, while they were looking for fruit, the men travelled long distances to hunt animals. When they had caught enough, they had to find their way home again. And this is where they learnt 'spatial awareness'. The women didn't need it because they hardly ever went out of sight of their homes, but for the men, it was vital.

3 _____

Humans are social animals, so why is it that men don't like sharing their problems while women tell their best friends everything?

Science says: The answer is in the brain. The parts responsible for language are 17% larger in a woman's brain than in a man's brain. Also, women use both the left and the right side of the brain to use language, while men use only one side – their strongest side. And there's more. The part of the brain that connects the two parts together – the corpus callosum – is larger in women too, which means that they can move information from one part to the other part more quickly. Nobody is sure why these differences exist, but it's clear that women have a definite advantage over men when it comes to communication.

b Read the article again. Choose the right answers.

- 1 Men can find it difficult to perceive...

- 4 Women didn't need spatial awareness in prehistoric times because...
  - a the men were always with them.
  - b they never left home.
  - c they didn't travel far from home.
- 5 Men are worse at communicating because...
  - a part of their brains are smaller.
  - b their brains are 17% smaller.
  - c their brains are larger.
- 6 The function of the corpus callosum in the brain is...
  - a to communicate between both sides.
  - b to store different languages.
  - c to control the language process.

3 READING

a Read the text. Mark the sentences T (true) or F (false).

- New York taxis are all the same model of car. F
- A medallion number has four numbers and one letter. —
- An off-duty cab won't pick you up. —
- You should stand in the street until a taxi stops for you. —
- When you get in a taxi, the price starts at 40 cents. —
- You pay per minute if there are problems with traffic. —
- Taxi drivers like to be paid in cash. —

NEW YORK TAXIS

New York taxis provide an essential service to New Yorkers and tourists for getting around the city. There are over 12,000 yellow medallion taxicabs so it doesn't take long to see one.

What does a New York taxi look like?

New York taxis come in many different shapes and sizes, but to be official taxis they must be yellow. They must also have a special code called a medallion number: one number, then one letter, and two more numbers. A bronze badge with the same code should also be displayed on the hood.

Only taxis with the above are legally licensed to pick you up!

How will I know when a New York taxi is available?

It's all in the lights! When just the centre light illuminates the medallion number, the taxi is available to be hailed. When the centre light is off and both sidelights are on (illuminating the words 'Off Duty'), the taxi is off duty and won't stop for you.

How to hail a New York taxi.

First, try to hail a taxi in the direction you are already going; it saves time and money. When you see an available taxi, make sure it's safe and step off the pavement whilst holding your hand up high. If for any reason you don't get the driver's attention, step back onto the pavement and wait for the next available taxi and repeat the process. It's as simple as that.

New York taxi fares.

Once you step into the cab the meter will be turned on. This is called the 'flag-drop fare' and is $2.50. After that it will cost you 40 cents for every 400 metres, or 40 cents per minute if you are stuck in traffic. There is a flat-rate charge of $45 from Manhattan to JFK Airport.

If you're happy with the journey, you should tip your driver between 15% and 20% of the total fare. Paying by cash is preferred, however all taxis now accept credit cards.

Failure: the first step towards success

Many people who have found success started out by failing. Below are four of the most famous.

A Some people consider this man to be the greatest scientist that has ever lived. However, his early life was nothing special. He was very small as a child and he was a very poor student. When he was twelve, his mother took him out of school so that he could learn how to run the family farm. Unfortunately, he wasn't very good at that either, so in the end he was sent back to school. After eventually passing his exams, he went to Cambridge University where he became a brilliant scholar. Later, he developed his law of gravity.

B This man is one of the most famous inventors of all time, which is incredible when you think he only went to school for three months. After his teacher lost patience with him, his mother taught him from home and he learnt many important lessons from reading books. His working life started as badly as his schooling had, and he was fired from his first two jobs. However, this gave him more time to experiment – by the end of his life he had invented over a thousand devices. His most famous invention was a certain type of light bulb.

C Ask anyone to name the most famous film director in Hollywood and many of them will say this man's name. However, his career in cinema started badly, as he was rejected three times from film school. He eventually started his studies at a different school, but he dropped out to become a director before he had finished. Since then he has won the Oscar for Best Director twice and three of his films have broken box office records. He went back to school in 2002 to finish his studies and earn his BA degree.

D Although he is one of the most successful businessmen and computer programmers of all time, this man didn't actually finish university. He was very bright at school and went to Harvard University, but he spent most of his time using the university's computers for his own projects and didn't do much studying. After dropping out, he decided to start his own company with a friend. This company failed, but he persisted and won a contract with IBM which eventually resulted in his company becoming one of the most powerful and recognized brands in the world today.

4 READING

a Read the article once and tick (✓) the best summary.

- 1 How men should behave towards women in the 21st century.
- 2 How men behaved towards women in the past.
- 3 The difference between men's and women's manners.

first?

Nobody knows how long people have been using the words 'Ladies First', nor is anyone sure where the concept came from. However, neither of these facts matter today. The important question is whether the tradition is still relevant, and if men should continue respecting it.

In the past, there was a strict set of rules concerning men's behaviour towards women – or rather 'ladies' as they were called then. Men wearing hats used to take them off in the presence of women. They used to stand up whenever a woman entered or left a room, and they did the same at a dining table. Men used to hold a door for a woman to allow her to go through first. They always used to pay for meals – but we'll come back to that one later. All of these customs were considered good manners, and people looked down on men who did not conform.

In fact, this set of rules actually made things easier for men. If they broke a rule, they knew perfectly well that they were going to offend somebody. Today, it is much easier to cause offence without meaning to. For example, if a man opens a door to let a woman through first, and she does so without saying thank you, the man may feel offended. And if a man invites a woman to a restaurant of his choice on their first date, and then asks her to pay her half of the bill, it may be the woman who gets upset. Women no longer want to be treated as the weaker sex, which leaves men in a dilemma. On the one hand, men are conscious of the 'Ladies First' tradition, but on the other, they do not want to offend. Often, they don't know what to do.

The best advice is this: if in doubt, men should follow the rules of 'Ladies First'. Even if the woman considers the behaviour inappropriate, she will still realize that the man has good manners. This is particularly relevant on that first date we were talking about. If the man has invited the woman out, then he should pay the bill. Actually, it's the invitation to dinner itself that is important here, not the amount of money spent. In general, women appreciate a picnic or a home-made dinner just as much as an expensive meal.

So the answer to our original question is: yes. 'Ladies First' is still relevant today, but not in the same way as it was in the past. Most women appreciate a kind gesture made by a man, but he should never accompany it with the words 'Ladies First' – it spoils the effect completely!

It's fairly normal for young children to cheat when they're playing board games. As they grow older, they realize that the fun is actually in taking part in the game, not necessarily in winning it. By the time they reach their teens, they have usually learnt not to cheat. Sadly, this was not the case of a player in a national board game championship held annually in the USA. The player wanted to win so much that he resorted to cheating.

The board game was Scrabble. This is a word game that was created in 1938 by an American architect called Alfred Moshier Butts. In the game, players have to make words from individual letters on small squares called 'tiles', and then put the words on a board. Two of the most useful tiles in the game are the blanks, which are tiles without any letters on them. A blank isn't worth any points, but a player can use it to replace any letter of the alphabet.

The cheat in this particular tournament was a 15-year-old boy from Orlando, in the USA. He had surprised organizers in the early stages of the competition by beating some of the best players, despite the fact that he had never played in competitions before. This made some of the other players suspicious, including the man who caught him, 43-year-old Arthur Moore. Moore had already played the boy the day before, and Moore had won the match, although the boy had had both of the blank tiles. In Scrabble, before a new game starts the players put the tiles from the previous game back into a small bag. This time, Moore had a good look at the tiles on the table before he and his opponent put them in the bag to start the game. He was not surprised to see that the two blanks were together on the table in front of the boy. As the two players were putting the tiles into the bag, Moore discretely watched the boy's left hand. He saw the boy pick up the two blanks, and put his hand under the table. This was the signal for Moore to call one of the organizers and accuse the boy of cheating.

When the boy was taken away for questioning, he admitted taking the two blanks during the game and hiding them under the table. As a result of his cheating, the tournament director disqualified him and banned him from playing in the competition again.

4 READING

- a Read the article once. How many friends does the average American have?

Your friends in numbers

HOW MANY FRIENDS does the average person have? A researcher at Cornell University in the USA has recently done a study into this question, by finding out the number of friends a typical American has. He has just published the results. The researcher interviewed more than 2,000 adults aged 18 and over in his study. He asked them to list the names of the people they had discussed serious matters with in the last six months. About 48% of the people taking part gave the researcher one name, 18% gave him two, and about 29% gave him more than two.

These results contrast dramatically with the news published by social networking site Facebook recently. They said that the average user on the site has 130 friends. The Cornell University study found the average number of friends to be a lot lower – 2.03 to be exact. The researcher from Cornell has explained that the difference lies in the definition of the word friend. A friend on Facebook may be a person that the user has met by chance or someone that they will never meet in real life. However, the friends in his study are close friends, who participants feel comfortable discussing their problems with.

In a similar study conducted 25 years ago, participants had a higher number of close friends. Then, the average number was three. Despite the lower number, the researcher does not believe that people are getting more isolated. Instead he thinks it's a sign that they are becoming better at choosing who they can trust with their secrets.

This is supported by the number of people in the study who could not think of any names of close friends they would discuss their personal problems with. The percentage of these participants is the same this time as it was 25 years ago. In both studies, just over 4% of the participants gave researchers no names. Apparently, the people who fall into this category are more likely to be men, or people with less education.

In general, the researcher from Cornell regards these findings as positive. In his opinion, they suggest that, at least in the case of Americans, people are not becoming less sociable.

3 READING

Getting around the USA

America is huge, so flying is the quickest way to get around the country. It can be expensive though, so here are some other ways of getting around.

If you aren't in a hurry, the best alternative is to go by car. You have to be at least 25 years old to rent a car in the States, and you need a valid driver's license and a major credit card to do so. There are a lot of rental car companies, and their prices vary a lot. Compare companies before you decide which one to use, and remember it can be cheaper to book for a week than for a day.

If you prefer to be driven rather than driving yourself, the next best way to travel is by bus. Greyhound is the major long-distance bus company, and it has routes through the USA and Canada. Tickets are much cheaper if you buy them seven days in advance, and there are often other offers. If you're travelling with a friend, your companion gets 50% off if you buy the tickets three days before you travel, and children aged between two and 11 get a 40% discount.

An alternative to using the bus is to take the train. Amtrak is the American rail company, and it has long-distance lines connecting all of America's biggest cities. It also runs buses from major stations to smaller towns and national parks. Fares vary depending on the type of train and the seat, but you need to reserve at least three days ahead to get a discount. Students with an International Student Card get 15% off the standard fare. Bring your own food, as the dining car is quite expensive.

On location at Knebworth House

Knebworth House is famous worldwide for the major open-air rock concerts that have been held in its grounds since 1979. Knebworth is in the south-east of England, and the Lytton family have lived there for over 500 years. The house itself is one of the oldest stately homes in the UK. It is also one of the most popular locations for the world's film makers.

Not surprisingly, the Gothic architecture of the house appealed to American film director Tim Burton, when he saw it. He was in the UK filming a new version of the film Batman at the time. He thought that the façade of the building would be perfect as the exterior of Wayne Manor, the home of Batman. But the inside of Wayne Manor was actually shot at another big house in the same area – Hatfield House.

The inside of Knebworth House has also been used in many films. An important scene from the 2010 Oscar-winning film The King's Speech was shot in the ballroom. This film was made by the British director Tom Hooper. It starred Colin Firth as the young King George VI of England, who had a speech impediment. The ballroom was the venue for a party which was held by his older brother Edward. In a corner of the room, Edward tells George that he is planning to marry divorced American woman, Wallis Simpson, something which makes it impossible for him to be King of England. It is George who becomes King instead.

And, of course, like many other historic buildings in the UK, Knebworth has made an appearance in the Harry Potter films. In the fourth film of the series, Harry Potter and the Goblet of Fire, a Christmas ball is held in Hogwarts School of Magic. Before the dancing starts, there is a scene where one of Harry's friends appears in a beautiful long dress. The staircase that she descends while her friends look on in amazement is, in fact, the one in Knebworth House.

These are just a few of the famous scenes filmed at Knebworth House. To discover more, why not visit Knebworth yourself? The house is only 45 kilometres from London, and is easy to get to by car or by train. Knebworth House is a must for all cinema lovers visiting the UK.

Photoshopping: how much is too much?

Today, it is normal for magazines to show pictures of models and celebrities that have been 'Photoshopped'. This means that the original photos have been changed on a computer using the Photoshop software to make them look better. The beautiful people in the photographs have perfect skin, no fat on their stomachs, and no wrinkles on their faces. They look so perfect and beautiful that what we see can't be real. But some publishers and advertisers insist that Photoshopping is necessary so that celebrities and models always look their best.

On the other hand, health organizations have warned that digitally altering photographs may be dangerous. They say Photoshopped images are not realistic, and may have a negative effect on people. Psychologists agree with the health organizations. They say some people try so hard to look like the pictures in magazines that they get ill. In some cases, they want to be as slim as the models and so they stop eating properly. When they realize that it is impossible to look so good, they get depressed. This doesn't only happen to young girls but it can happen to people of all ages. So what can be done to keep everybody happy? Two researchers at Dartmouth University in New Hampshire, USA, think they have found the answer.

Professor Hany Farid and Doctor Eric Klee have developed a computer program that can detect how much Photoshopping has been used on an image. Their software gives a rating from 1 to 5 to the image – 1 for a few changes, and 5 for a lot of changes. Farid and Klee's idea is that publishers include the rating next to the image. That way, consumers will be able to work out how realistic the image is.

News of Farid and Klee's system has come out at the same time as people have started criticizing the use of Photoshopping. They say that some advertisers are going too far with it. Recently, the actress Rachel Weisz appeared in an advert for an anti-ageing beauty cream in the UK. In the advert, Ms Weisz looked like a teenager – in fact, she's in her early forties. There were a lot of complaints about the image and the advert was eventually banned. Farid and Klee's system could solve two problems at the same time. Firstly, it would serve as a kind of health warning for consumers, and secondly it may stop advertisers from relying on Photoshopping so much.

When is it time to stop studying?

It's 10 p.m. and six government employees are out checking the streets of Seoul, South Korea. But these are not police officers looking for teenagers who are behaving badly. Their mission is to find children who are still studying. And stop them.

Education in South Korea is very competitive. The aim of almost every schoolchild is to get into one of the country's top universities. Only the pupils with the best marks get a place. The school day starts at 8 a.m. and pupils finish studying somewhere between 10 p.m. and 1 a.m. at night. This is because many go to private academies called hagwons after school. Around 74% of all pupils attend a hagwon after their regular classes finish. A year's course costs, on average, $2,600 per pupil. In Seoul, there are more private tutors than schoolteachers, and the most popular ones make millions of dollars a year from online and in-person classes. Most parents rely on private tutoring to get their children into university.

With so much time spent in the classroom, all that pupils at South Korean secondary schools do is study and sleep. Some of them are so exhausted that they cannot stay awake the next day at school. It is a common sight to see a teacher explaining the lesson while a third of the pupils are asleep on their desks. The teachers don't seem to mind. There are even special pillows for sale that fit over the arms of the chairs to make sleeping in class more comfortable. Ironically, the pupils spend the lessons sleeping so that they can stay up late studying that night.

The South Korean government has been aware of the faults in the system for some time, but now they have passed some reforms. Today, schoolteachers and head teachers in state schools have to meet certain standards or do additional training.

However, the biggest challenge for the government is the hagwons. The hagwons have been banned from having classes after 10 p.m. which is why there are street patrols looking for children who are studying after that time. If they find some in class, the owner of the hagwon is punished and the pupils are sent home. It's a strange world, where some children have to be told to stop studying while others are reluctant to start.

- 3 The most interesting houses to visit in London

1 D

Are you interested in the history of your house? If you are, then you might like to get in touch with a house historian. A house historian's job is to find out what has happened to a particular house in the past. They try to discover who built the house, who has lived in the building since it was built, and what was on the site of the building before. Their research can uncover all kinds of interesting information.

We spoke to house historian Tracy Collins, who told us some of her stories. One of the houses she had to research was a flat at 200 Oxford Street in London. She discovered that the author George Orwell had once stayed with the owners of the flat. He had slept in the smallest bedroom in the flat, which was very dark. Later, when he wrote his novel 1984, he used the room as the inspiration for the famous Room 101. On another occasion, she was looking into the story of a block of flats in Orchard Court, also in London. She found out that the flat had been used by spies during the Second World War. First of all, the spies were invited to the building for a job interview. If they were successful, they went on a training course. After the course, they returned to the flat for their instructions. Then, they were sent on a mission. But Tracy's third story is even more dramatic. When she was investigating a house in another part of London, she discovered that a murder had happened there!

However, house historians do not only focus on one particular house. They also find out about the district where the house was built. Some districts are completely different now than they were in the past. One example is an area in Central London called Belgravia. Today, it is one of the richest districts in the world, but in the early nineteenth century, it was a poorer area. People used to go there during the day to hang out their washing or to collect plants for food. At night, many people would avoid the area because it was full of criminals.

If you can't afford to pay a professional to research the history of your house, you can try to research the past yourself. The best place to start is to find all the official documents belonging to your house. These should give you some idea of who the previous owners were. After that, you should go to the office that has the official documents of your area. Some of these go back hundreds of years! You may not find out anything particularly interesting about your house, but you're sure to enjoy the search.

- B Keep copies of all documents
- C Check the terms and conditions of the seller
- D Check your computer before and after buying online
- E Always use a credit card

Top tips for safe online shopping

Currently, nine out of ten people in the UK shop online at least once a month. Experts predict that our spending on the internet over the next five years will grow by 129%. Read on to find out how you can protect yourself when you are shopping online.

1 E

When you buy things on the internet, there is always a chance that something may go wrong. The product could be broken when you get it, or it might not turn up at all. If this happens, your credit card will offer you the best protection. By law, your credit card company will cover anything that costs between £100 and £30,000 if there are any problems with your order. Which is why a credit card is the best way to pay.

Make sure that your device, for example your laptop or tablet, is safe to use at all times. It should be protected by up-to-date anti-virus software, and you should also install a personal firewall, which will stop hackers attacking your system. Check that your firewall is turned on before you start shopping, and when you finish be sure to log out of the system, especially if you share your computer with other people.

b Look at the highlighted words and phrases. What do you think they mean? Use your dictionary to look up their meaning and pronunciation.

Take a minute to look at the website before you buy anything. Check that the company has a geographical address as well as a landline telephone number, and write down these details. It is generally better to use sellers that you know about or ones that have been recommended to you.

Sellers should have a list of all your rights (for example what to do if you have a problem with the item you bought, or if it hasn't arrived) somewhere on their website, and you need to read this before you decide to shop there. If you can't find the list, you should probably choose a different website. As a general rule, online companies usually give their customers seven days to cancel their order if they change their minds about their purchase. This week is called a 'cooling-off' period.

A special icon on your screen will tell you if the website you are using is safe. The icon is in the shape of a padlock, and you can find it on the browser bar at the bottom of the screen. Another indication of a safe website is its address. The address should begin with 'https' and not 'http' – the s stands for secure.

The final stage of online shopping is the order confirmation. This is proof that you have bought a product from this company, and it contains the special reference number for your order. You should always print this information and keep it somewhere safe – you might need it if there is a problem.

4 READING

a Read the article once. Which job / jobs require a special qualification?

Do something different and get a super salary!

Would you like your friends to be impressed by your job? Do you want to earn a better salary? Here are some of the strangest jobs around that pay over $100,000 per year.

A Ethical hacker

What they do

A hacker doesn't usually have permission to enter a company's computer system. But an ethical hacker is actually employed by a company to look after the system. Ethical hackers have to protect a company's IT network from real hackers. Their job is to stop professional criminals from entering the company's system to steal confidential information.

How to get a job

After taking a degree in IT, you have to work in computers for a few years until you have enough experience in programming. After that, you need to get a special qualification called the Certified Ethical Hacker (CEH) certificate, which lets you work as an ethical hacker. Salaries start between $50,000 and $100,000, depending on your experience and where you work.

B Golf-ball diver

What they do

Not all of the golf balls on a golf course end up in the hole on the green. In fact, golfers hit a surprisingly high number of them into the lake. Golf-ball divers do exactly what the job title suggests: they dive into the lake to collect the balls. Professional divers only work during the day. They have to wear special diving equipment, as well as a pair of thick waterproof gloves to stop their hands getting cold.

How to get a job

To be a golf-ball diver, you need an advanced certificate in scuba diving. Once you have the right qualifications, you can choose to work for a company or to work for yourself. If you work for a company, the company will organize your schedule for you, whereas if you're self-employed, you have to contact the golf courses yourself. Golf-ball divers are paid between seven and 12 cents per ball, and on an average day, they can collect about 4,000 balls. If you work from 7 a.m. to midday four days a week, you can earn up to $100,000 per year.

C Forensic dentist

What they do

Forensic dentists spend most of their time identifying dead bodies. When a body is found, the dentist looks at the teeth and checks the records of other dentists to try and discover who the person was. If they don't find any information to match the dead person's teeth, the forensic dentist has to build up a profile about them. This profile contains information such as their sex, age, height, weight, and diet. Forensic dentists often work closely with the police and they sometimes have to give evidence in court.

How to get a job

First, you need to do a degree in dentistry and after that, you can do a postgraduate course to become a forensic dentist. You have to work in a laboratory for many years until you are promoted to Head of Department. The starting salary is between $69,000 to $146,000 per year, but forensic dentists who go to court can earn up to $180,000.

5 READING

- a Read the article once and number the paragraphs in the correct order.

A lucky escape

A After he had seen the pictures of the crash, Mr Hamilton called the emergency services. The police came immediately and an ambulance arrived on the scene soon after. A spokesperson from the ambulance association said that the couple both had minor injuries, but only one of them had been taken to hospital. A neighbour said that she had seen the young couple having an argument in the car when the accident happened.

B Instead of going downstairs to talk to the couple in his garden, Mr Hamilton went to look at the pictures on his CCTV cameras. He had installed the cameras some years previously to deter people from stealing the potted plants outside his front door. The Hamiltons live on the corner of a road that leads to the high street, and passers-by can easily step over the low wall that surrounds his garden. When he played back the pictures of the accident, he could not believe his eyes.

C 1 An elderly couple from Dudley, near Birmingham in Central England, had a shock last night after they had gone to bed. Seventy-five-year old Howard Hamilton and his wife were just falling asleep when they heard a big bang in their front garden. They both jumped straight out of bed to look out of the window and see what had happened. What they saw was a badly-damaged car lying in their front garden. Next to the car there was a young couple hugging each other. Once Mr Hamilton realized that nobody had been hurt, he decided to go and find out what had caused the accident.

D Apparently, this is the fourth time that a car has driven through the wall of Mr Hamilton's garden. This is because drivers often go round the corner too fast, and lose control of their vehicles. Mr Hamilton's sister Joyce, who lives next door, said that it had been lucky that nobody had been walking along the pavement. She said that she didn't know what would have happened if there had been anybody there. Regarding the number of accidents that have happened on the corner, she said, 'We're getting used to it.'

E On the recording, he saw that the girlfriend had been driving the car, which was a silver Peugeot 406. He watched her turn the corner and lose control of the car. The car crashed right through the wall of his garden and came to a stop in the middle of the lawn. But the most dramatic thing is what had happened to her boyfriend. Before the crash, the sunroof of the car had been open. When the car hit the wall, Mr Hamilton saw the boyfriend fly out of the sunroof and land heavily on the lawn. Miraculously, he was not hurt. Instead, he got up, and went to find his girlfriend. She didn't seem to be badly injured either – she appeared to be wearing her seat belt when the accident happened.

4 READING

a Read the article once and choose the best heading.

- 1 Laptops and modern lifestyles
- 2 Eat and drink while you work
- 3 Liquid and laptops don't mix

Have you ever dropped a drink on your laptop? If you have, you'll remember the panic when you thought that your machine would never work again. If you haven't, it may well happen to you in the future. Spilling drinks on a laptop is a common occurrence. Just in case it does happen, here are some basic tips that tell you what you should do.

The effect of the drink on your laptop depends on what it is. Water and green tea generally cause the least damage. The worst drinks to spill are those which contain milk and sugar, such as hot drinks like coffee and tea, and soft drinks like cola or lemonade.

What happens to your laptop also depends on what you do immediately after the spill. The first thing you should do is unplug the machine and take the battery out. This will, hopefully, stop any electrical damage. Then, you should turn it upside down and stop the liquid getting to the motherboard. This is where some of the most important parts of the computer are, and if it gets wet, your laptop may be damaged permanently.

The next step is to clean up as much of the liquid as quickly as possible. If you don't have a cloth to do this, use some tissues instead. Try to touch the keyboard lightly instead of wiping it with the tissue.

If you spilled a lot of liquid, you'll have to work harder to save your machine. Put it near a window or somewhere with cold air, and shake it gently to get the liquid out. It might help if you take off the bottom of the case so that you can take out the hard drive. If you do this, remember not to touch any of the electronics. When you have done as much as you can, leave the laptop somewhere warm to dry. This will take at least a day. Do not use a hairdryer, as this will make the machine dirty.

When you think the laptop is dry, switch it back on to see if it works. If you only spilled a little clean water, you might be lucky and the machine may turn on straight away. However, you'll probably have problems if the drink was a large, milky coffee with lots of sugar in it, or a glass of wine. If your laptop still doesn't work, look at the keyboard and try taking it apart to clean it better. However, if you've gone this far, it's probably time you thought about getting some help. You can either take the laptop to be repaired, or buy a new one. And in future, remember to drink your coffee at someone else's desk!

- 1 People made bread in the shape of bagels in many different cultures. T
  - 2 Bagels were first made in Austria. —
  - 3 They were made by Jewish bakers. —
  - 4 Bagels were first made in New York in the Brooklyn area. —
  - 5 They became popular all over America in the 1960s. —
  - 6 New inventions were used to sell bagels across America. —
  - 7 One of the reasons bagels are popular is because they stay fresh for a long time. —

A Short History of the Bagel

The bagel is known around the world as a typically New York type of food. But it has a surprising and unusual history that goes back many years.

The basic idea of a bread roll with a hole is centuries old. In Roman times, soldiers ate hard bread called buccellatum, and in China there is similar-shaped traditional bread called girde. The ancient Egyptians ate a bagel-like snack, too, and there are even more examples from around the Mediterranean area.

But it was in Poland that today's bagel really began. According to legend, it was the product of the 1683 Battle of Vienna. The Polish king, Jan Sobieski, had saved Austria from the Turkish invaders. To celebrate, the Jewish bakers of Kraków made a roll in the shape of the king's stirrup – the metal objects you put your feet in when you ride a horse – and called it a 'buegel' (from the German word for stirrup). There is, however, no evidence to show whether this was true or not, but the story still remains today.

It is unclear when the first bagels made their way to the United States, but by 1900, 70 bakeries which sold bagels existed on the Lower East Side district of New York. What is also certain is that immigrants from Eastern Europe, with their cravings for the foods of the old country, sparked the New York bagel craze.

It was the 1950s that were the real turning point. As Jewish people began to move to other parts of New York, they started to share their traditional food with the rest of the city. Bagels were mentioned in a popular cookbook of the time, and demand started to grow across America. To meet this demand, a baker called Murray Lender began to use recent inventions like the freezer and plastic packaging to distribute freshly-made bagels across America. Soon, Lender's bagels were available in almost every supermarket, and today they are part of a traditional American diet and available all over the world.

But why has the bagel endured through all this time? Possibly because of its heroic legend, but also because it has the advantage of lasting longer than freshly-baked bread. If it gets slightly stale, it can be dunked in hot liquid to soften it. So it lasts long, can be eaten in many ways, and of course tastes delicious.

- a Read part 1 of an extract from a novel once. Where does Hannay first think Scudder is from?

- England
Norway
America
Greece

The Thirty-Nine Steps

Introduction:

Richard Hannay, the narrator, has just returned to London from Africa. A mysterious man called Franklin Scudder appears outside his flat one night, and tells Hannay about a group of people he met who are trying to push Europe towards a war. He believes only the Greek Prime Minister, Constantine Karolides, can stop the war. Karolides will be in London soon, and Scudder believes there is a plan to kill him then. Scudder believes he can stop this plan, but only if people think he is dead...

Part 1

I was beginning to like this strange little man. I gave him another whisky and asked him why he thought he was now in danger himself.

He took a large mouthful of whisky. 'I came to London by a strange route – through Paris, Hamburg, Norway, and Scotland. I changed my name in every country, and when I got to London, I thought I was safe. There's a man watching this building and last night somebody put a card under my door. On it was the name of the man I fear most in the world.

'So I decided I had to "die". Then they would stop looking for me. I got a dead body – it's easy to get one in London, if you know how – and I had the body brought to my flat in a large suitcase. The body was the right age, but the face was different from mine. I dressed it in my clothes and shot it in the face with my own gun. My servant will find me when he arrives in the morning and he'll call the police. I've left a lot of empty whisky bottles in my room. The police will think I drank too much and then killed myself.' He paused. 'I watched from the window until I saw you come home, and then came down the stairs to meet you.'

It was the strangest of stories. However, in my experience, the most extraordinary stories are often the true ones. And if the man just wanted to get into my flat and murder me, why didn't he tell a simpler story? 'Right,' I said. 'I'll trust you for tonight. I'll lock you in this room and keep the key. Just one word, Mr Scudder. I believe you're honest, but if you're not, I should warn you that I certainly know how to use a gun.'

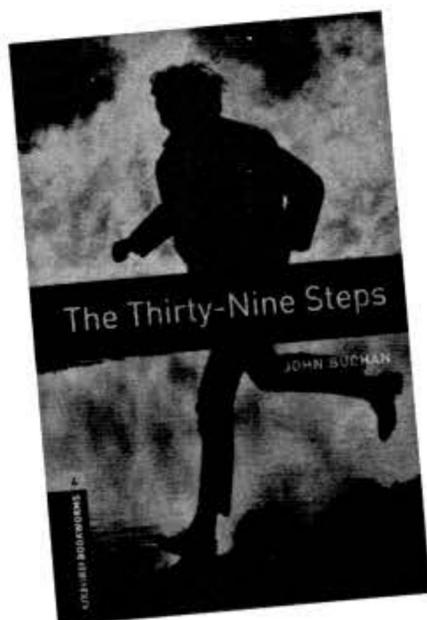

'Certainly,' he answered, jumping up. 'I'm afraid I don't know your name, sir, but I would like to thank you. And could I use your bathroom?'

When I saw him next, half an hour later, I didn't recognize him at first. Only the bright eyes were the same. His beard was gone, and his hair was completely different. He walked like a soldier, and he was wearing glasses. And he no longer spoke like an American.

'Mr Scudder –' I cried.

'Not Mr Scudder,' he answered. 'Captain Theophilus Digby of the British Army. Please do remember that.'

I made him a bed in my study, and went to bed myself, happier than I had been for the past month. Interesting things did happen sometimes, even in London.

1 A))

Presenter Welcome back to the show. Today, we've been discussing Teresa Gold's article The truth about healthy eating. And now it's time for you, the listeners, to tell us what you think. The lines are open, so all you have to do is call 091 344 5792 and talk to one of our operators. That's 091 344 5792. And it looks like we have our first caller. William from Manchester, tell us what you think about the article.

William Well, I'd like to say that I don't agree with the article at all. I don't eat much fruit or vegetables and I'm perfectly healthy. I haven't been off sick from work for years – I can't remember the last time I had to stay in bed. This five-a-day thing is a load of rubbish, really, isn't it?

Presenter Um...thank you, William. I think we have another caller on line two. Kate from Newcastle, are you there?

Kate Yes, I am. Well, I'm sure the writer knows what she's talking about, but it isn't that easy, is it? I mean, it's hard enough to get kids to eat vegetables at the best of times, but with all these burger bars and pizza places around, it's nearly impossible. Once they get the taste for junk food, you can forget the five-a-day, I can tell you!

Presenter Thanks, Kate. And who's our next caller?

Harry Um, my name's Harry and I'm from Southampton.

Presenter And what do you think, Harry?

Harry Well, I'd like to say that I think that the article is right. I mean, the writer talks about eating a lot of fruit and vegetables, which is something that we've always done in my family. My mum's a great cook, and she's always used completely natural ingredients in her cooking and we're hardly ever ill...

Presenter Thank you, Harry. Let's go back to line two again, where we've got Rosie from Cardiff. Rosie, what's your opinion?

Rosie Well, the writer seems to think that ALL fruit and vegetables are good for you, and I don't think that's quite right. I mean, what about potatoes? They contain a lot of carbohydrates, which can make you put on weight, if you aren't careful – it's even worse if you fry them. And then some fruit, like melon for example, has a lot of sugar. Personally, I think you should eat a bit of everything and not too much of one thing.

Presenter Thanks for that, Rosie. And that's all we've got time for today. We'll be speaking to the writer of the article after the break.

1 B))

Terry I'm exhausted!

Jane Me too. I haven't stopped all day.

Terry Neither have I.

Jane Oh well. I suppose it'll get easier when the children grow up.

Terry Do you think so?

Jane Of course. When they're older, they'll be more independent. We won't have to do everything for them any more.

Terry And how long will that take? Five, six years? Or maybe never!

Jane Look, what's the problem, Terry?

Terry Nothing. It's just that we never have time for each other these days. We're always with the children!

Jane But that's what happens when you have children. It'll get better!

Terry I don't know...My parents were talking about us going to live with them. Do you think it would be easier for us if we lived with my parents?

Jane Well, I suppose it'd have its advantages.

Terry Yes, I mean for one thing there'd always be someone to look after the children.

Jane That sounds good.

Terry And we could go out in the evening without the children. Just imagine that!

Jane Hmm. That doesn't really matter to me.

Terry And there would be more people to share the housework, too. It wouldn't always be the same person who does the shopping, cleans the house, and cooks the meals.

Jane Yes, but there would be more people in the house, so there would be more work to do. Shopping and cooking for six isn't the same as doing it for four.

Terry I suppose so.

Jane And another disadvantage is that we wouldn't have any privacy.

Terry True

Jane And you know what your parents are like. They let the children do everything they want to do.

Terry Hmm. I guess you don't want to move in with my parents, then.

Jane Not really, no. Would you like to move in with mine?

Terry No, definitely not...Actually, things aren't so bad right now.

Jane I agree.

Terry And the children will be older soon.

Jane Yes, they will.

Terry That's settled then. We're staying here.

Jane Fine.

2 A))

Speaker 1 Can I live on my salary?

Well, I don't have many problems really, because I'm still living with Mum and Dad. Don't get me wrong, I give my mum some rent, but it's definitely much cheaper than living on your own. I've got quite a good salary actually – I'm a graphic designer. I don't really spend much – I buy some new clothes every now and then, and I have to put petrol in my car, of course, but apart from that, it's just going out at the weekend really. Most of my money goes into a savings account so that I can buy my own house one day.

Speaker 2 I find it really hard to live on my income, because I've only got a part-time job. Being on my own with my daughter means that my mom has to look after her when I'm at work. At least I don't have to pay for childcare! The flat we live in is rented, so that's where most of the money goes. I don't think I'll ever be able to afford our own place, because the bank won't give me a mortgage. Apart from the rent, my money goes on food and clothes for my daughter. Still, I mustn't complain. I've got a lovely daughter, and that's all that matters really.

Speaker 3 I think I'm quite lucky really. I'm fairly healthy for my age, I've got enough money to live on, and I've got my children and grandchildren! When I say I've got enough money, I don't have any fancy holidays or anything like that. But I'm comfortable. I've paid the mortgage, so that's one less expense, and I haven't got any bank loans to pay either. My one little luxury is going out for lunch a few times a week with some friends. I suppose that's where most of my money goes really – on food!

Speaker 4 Can we live on our salaries? Well, I'm not very sure, actually! My husband is a teacher, so he doesn't earn that much – certainly not enough to bring up two children! That means I have to go out to work as well – I've got a full-time job at the local supermarket. And that's our biggest problem really, because we need someone to look after the children. Our child-minder costs a fortune – we spend more on childcare than we do on our mortgage! Then there's food and new clothes for the children, too. Honestly, it isn't cheap having kids these days!

2 B)))

Presenter And now to end the programme with an inspirational story, we have John to tell us about an incredible journey.

John Yes, thank you, Helen. Have you ever thought about travelling around the world and trying to help people as you go? Well that's what an American father and his two adopted sons are currently doing. J.D. Lewis is a single parent and a former actor. He's taken his sons, Jackson, 14 and Buck, 9, out of school for a year to make the trip with him. And their plan is to help people along the way by doing voluntary charity work.

Presenter That sounds wonderful, but it must be an expensive trip. How much will it all cost?

John It's going to cost them $300,000 in total.

Presenter That's a lot of money – how did they afford it?

John Well, J.D. Lewis didn't have all the money, so he set up an organization called Twelve In Twelve to help raise money, and with the help of individuals and some companies, they managed to raise the money.

Presenter Twelve In Twelve, that's an unusual name. Why did he call it that?

John For a very good reason. Not only is their trip going to last twelve months, but their plan is to visit twelve countries. This month, they're in Australia, where they're working with the most important ethnic group in the region – the Aborigines. J.D. and his family are helping to get medical supplies to these people, who often live a long way from the major cities.

Presenter And is that the first place they've visited?

John Oh no, so far they have visited seven countries. Their first stop was Russia, where they looked after babies in an orphanage in the city of Tomsk. From there, they travelled to China, where they worked with children with physical disabilities in Beijing. Then, they flew to Thailand where they helped look after the animals at the Elephant Nature Park.

Presenter What a variety of places. Where did they go next?

John Their next stop was India, where they worked with children in the poorest district of the city of Hubli. Then they left Asia and flew to Africa. In Rwanda, they taught English to children who had lost their parents in the civil war. From there, they went to Zanzibar, an island off the coast of Tanzania.

Presenter That sounds very exotic! What did they do there?

John They helped families prepare an art fair, where they could sell things that they had made. Next, they went to Kenya, where they wrote and acted in a play with children who have HIV.

Presenter Wow, I bet that was very rewarding. Did they go anywhere else in Africa?

John No, that was the end of Africa. From Kenya, they flew to Australia, which is where they are right now.

Presenter All that sounds amazing, but their journey isn't over, is it?

John No, J.D. and his family still have four places to go: Antarctica, Paraguay, Peru, and Haiti. Not only are they trying to do things to help other people, but they are hoping to learn a lot of new things themselves. And J.D. Lewis hopes that the Twelve In Twelve organization will encourage other families to do what he has done with his sons.

Presenter Well, good luck to J.D. Lewis and family on the rest of their incredible journey. And that's all we've got time for tonight. Join us again tomorrow when we'll be bringing you more real-life stories.

3 A)))

Speaker 1 One morning last winter, I was driving to work late when my mobile rang. I knew it was my boss so I answered it. Suddenly, the van in front of me stopped because there was someone crossing the road. I was talking to my boss, so I reacted too late and my car went into the back of the van. Fortunately, I was driving really slowly at the time, so I didn't do much damage to the van, but the front of my car was a real mess. Since then, I never use my phone when I'm driving.

Speaker 2 I was driving down to Devon one summer to visit my parents, who live in Exeter. It's quite a long journey, so I had taken my MP3 player with me to connect to the car radio. Surprisingly, there wasn't much traffic on the motorway, so I arrived in Devon quite quickly. However, I was having such a good time listening to my music, that I completely missed the exit for Exeter. I didn't realize until I had gone another 30 kilometres and so I had to turn round and drive all the way back again! It just goes to show what can happen when you aren't concentrating.

Speaker 3 We were on holiday last year, when we had a little accident. We were going somewhere we'd never been before, so we were following the instructions on my satnav. We heard on the radio that there'd been a big crash on one of the roads we needed to travel on, so I started adjusting my satnav to find a different road to take. I took my eyes off the road and suddenly we came to a corner. I saw the corner too late, so I went straight on and drove into the middle of a field. We were really lucky, though, because no one was hurt.

Speaker 4 I don't usually get up early enough to put my make-up on, so I normally put it on in my car. Well, I used to put it on in the car – now I wait until I get to my office. You see, I had a bit of a shock the other week, when I nearly didn't stop at a zebra crossing. I was looking in the mirror instead of at the road, so I didn't see this little boy run out – to tell you the truth, I hadn't even seen that there was a zebra crossing there. I just had time to put on the brakes and I missed the little boy by about a millimetre. I was quite shocked afterwards, though.

Speaker 5 I was driving into town to meet my girlfriend for dinner, when she sent me a text message. I decided to read it, in case it was important. Anyway, the message said that my girlfriend was already at the restaurant, and I wanted her to know that I was going to be a bit late, so when I stopped at a red light, I started to write a reply. But I didn't notice when the traffic lights turned green, and the car behind crashed into the back of me. The driver of the car said he thought I was going to drive off and so he moved forward and hit me. Of course I didn't tell him I was texting.

Presenter Traditionally in the UK, women have cooked more than men, but it looks as though things might be changing. According to a recent survey by a frozen foods company, nearly half of all men in this country now prepare the family meals. And they aren't just doing it because they have to – it's because they enjoy it. The survey showed that 44% of men who were questioned do all of the cooking, and surprisingly, 15% of women questioned said that they didn't know how to cook. So, it seems as if men are moving into the kitchen and perhaps women are moving out. Is this good news? What do you think? Call us on 061 532 3364 and tell us your opinion. I'll give you that number again – it's 061 532 3364.

And here's our first caller, Nick from Maidstone, in Kent. Nick, what do you think about this new trend?

Nick I'm really pleased to see more men in the kitchen. In fact, I'm one of them! I lost my job a few months ago, and now I do all the cooking at home. I make a different dish every day, and sometimes I meet up with my friends to exchange recipes. My girlfriend says she really likes my food, and she even thinks that I should train to be a professional chef. I'm seriously thinking about doing that.

Presenter Well, the very best of luck to you, Nick. Who's our next caller? Ah, yes... It's Eve from Bradford. Do you cook, Eve?

Eve No, I don't. But my husband does. He's a much better cook than me, so we decided from the very start that he would do all the cooking. And he makes some great meals – mostly curries. But there's one problem.

Presenter What's that, Eve?

Eve He makes a terrible mess of the kitchen, and I have to clean up after him. I don't know what's worse, actually, cooking myself or cleaning the kitchen!

Presenter Oh, come on Eve – it can't be that bad! Now I think we've got someone on line two. Yes, it's Frank from Aberdeen. What do you think about men taking over the kitchen, Frank?

Frank Well, I'm not surprised, to be honest with you. It seems to me that girls are getting lazier and lazier these days – it's only the older mums and grandmothers that know how to cook. I mean, how can a woman possibly get married if she can't cook? I think it's a disgrace!

Presenter Thank you, Frank. So, not all of our listeners think it's a good thing. How about our next caller, Martina, from Dublin? Is it good news or bad news for you, Martina?

Martina Good news. Definitely. In my house, I do all the cooking. My boyfriend doesn't cook at all – he can't even fry an egg! I mean, we both go out to work, so why can't we share the cooking? I'm really fed up with it, I really am. But I'm really happy for all those women out there who have found a real man. I know how you feel when you have to do everything yourself.

Presenter Let's hope Martina's boyfriend is listening in, so that he knows how she feels. We'll take some more calls after the break.

4 A)))

Speaker 1 I suffer from asthma and I usually carry an inhaler around with me just in case I get an attack. Anyway, I was on a work trip – I was in Paris – I had forgotten my inhaler and I was having problems breathing. So I went to a chemist's and asked for 'un aspirateur', which I thought was the French word for 'inhaler'. I realized it wasn't when the girls behind the counter looked very confused. It turned out that I had asked for a vacuum cleaner, 'aspirateur', instead of an inhaler, 'inhalateur'.

Speaker 2 I was in Istanbul with a Turkish friend of mine and we decided that we wanted to buy some bread. I wanted to try out the Turkish I knew so I said that I would ask for it. So we found this tiny little shop and we went in. I said to the shop assistant in my best voice 'taze erkek' which I thought meant 'fresh bread'. Unfortunately, I got the word for bread 'ekmek' confused with the word for man 'erkek', so what I had actually asked for was 'a fresh young man'. Luckily, my friend came to my rescue and asked for the bread correctly, but I felt a bit embarrassed!

Speaker 3 I was 14, and I was on an exchange visit with my school in Madrid. It was the first night and I was at home with my Spanish host family, the Garcías, having dinner. We'd finished the main course and it was time for dessert, so the wife, Maria, asked me if I'd like some fruit. I saw some bananas in the fruit bowl, so I asked for a 'plátón', at which point the whole family looked at me strangely. They then explained to me that I'd actually asked for a large plate. 'Plátón' means 'large plate' whereas 'banana' is 'plátano'.

Speaker 4 I was in Verona in Italy with my husband, and it was a very hot day, so we decided to get something to drink. So we sat down at this café in the square and we looked at the menu. I decided that I would have peach juice, so when the waiter came to our table, I asked him for some 'succo di pesce'. As soon as I'd finished speaking, he burst out laughing. He quickly apologized and explained in English that I'd asked him for fish juice and not peach juice. Fish is 'pesce' in Italian, and peaches are 'pesca'.

Speaker 5 I went to Corfu on holiday when I was about 15 and there were lots of beautiful Greek girls around, so I wanted to make a good impression by speaking Greek to them. So every morning when I saw them I said good morning to them: 'kalamári'. They always used to look at me as if I was completely mad and I never understood why. Later in the holiday someone told me that good morning is in fact 'kalimera', not 'kalamári'. I'd been saying 'squid' to them every morning not 'good morning' so I'm not surprised they thought I was mad!

Presenter Hello and welcome to The Traveller's Guide. Now, last week we asked our British listeners who are going to go abroad to send us their questions about good manners in other countries, and we've invited our resident expert Ruth Dempsey to the show to answer them. Welcome to the programme, Ruth.

Ruth Thank you.

Presenter So the first question, Ruth. This comes from Katy in Glasgow, who is going to travel around Thailand next summer. Katy wants to know what she should do when she first meets people in Thailand.

Ruth Well, Katy, most of the time, a simple handshake will be fine. But if someone gives you a 'wai', that is a small bow with the hands held together close to the body, you must do the same. But, if the person is of lower social status than you, so if they are younger than you, or they are a waiter, for example, you shouldn't return the 'wai'.

Presenter Very useful advice, Ruth. The next question is from Mark in Liverpool, who is going to Austria with his girlfriend, to meet her family for the first time. He asks: 'Is there anything I should or shouldn't do?'

Ruth Austrian culture is similar to British culture in a lot of ways, but there are a few differences to remember. Don't be late. If you say you are going to arrive at a particular time, make sure you arrive at that time. Take a gift to give to her parents and some flowers for her mother, but only in odd numbers, so for example nine flowers are OK, but ten would be considered bad luck.

Presenter That sounds like good advice for you, Mark. Right, our next caller is Julie in Lincoln. She is going to Greece on holiday, but doesn't speak the language. She asks: 'As I don't speak any Greek I will be communicating mostly with my hands. Are there any gestures I shouldn't use?'

Ruth Absolutely, Julie. The most important one to remember is the 'thumbs up', which in the UK means 'good' or 'OK'. But it is very insulting to a Greek person. Another one is the UK hand gesture for 'stop', where you show someone your hand with your fingers straight together, like a policeman. But again this is an insult in Greece.

Presenter Good luck, Julie. And we've got time for one more, and this question is from Claire in Swansea. She's going to South Korea for her job, and she would like some tips on business behaviour over there.

Ruth The most important thing to remember is that South Koreans like to bow a lot. As a foreigner, you won't be expected to, but it is a good way of showing respect, and the deeper you bow, the happier you are.

Presenter Very interesting. Ruth Dempsey, thank you for joining us.

Ruth My pleasure.

Speaker 1 Welcome back to the show. We've been talking about famous sports cheats in today's programme, and now we're going to hear about another scandal. The sport was badminton, and the venue was the 2012 Olympic Games in London. Tom is here to tell us about it. Hi, Tom.

Tom Hello, everybody.

Presenter So who was involved in the scandal, Tom?

Tom Well, the scandal involved four of the teams in the women's doubles competition. In total, eight players were disqualified for cheating: two pairs from South Korea, a pair from China, and a pair from Indonesia.

Presenter And what exactly happened?

Tom Well, basically the teams played badly on purpose to make sure they lost their matches.

Presenter Why would they do that?

Tom Well, to explain that I'll very quickly tell you about how the competition works. The matches are divided into different stages. Teams play against other teams in their group in the first stage, and if they win, they play in the next stage. So sometimes, a team might get a good opponent very early in the competition, which means they might not get through to the next stage.

Presenter Got it. So when did the cheating happen?

Tom Well, the problem started on the last day of the first stage. In the morning, the first Chinese team won their match, finishing second in their group. The second Chinese team were going to play against a South Korean team that evening, and whoever won that match would be likely to play against the first Chinese team in the next stage.

Presenter Why was this a problem?

Tom Neither team wanted to play against the first Chinese team because the South Korean team were sure they would lose, and the second Chinese team didn't want to play against a team from the same country yet, because that would mean that only one Chinese team was left to try to win a medal. So both teams both tried to lose against each other instead.

Presenter How did they do that?

Tom Well, both the South Koreans and the second Chinese team started missing shots. When they served, they either hit the shuttlecock into the net or they hit it so hard that it went outside the lines on the court. In the end, they looked like amateurs whereas they were in fact some of the best players in the world.

Presenter So who lost the match?

Tom The second Chinese team. South

Korea beat them in both sets.

Presenter What about the other two teams?

Tom Well, they tried to do exactly the same thing in the next match.

Presenter Which teams were these, again?

Tom Indonesia and another South Korean pair.

Presenter So in both matches, the teams tried to lose instead of trying to win so they'd have a better chance of winning a medal. Is that right?

Tom Yes. That's exactly what happened. And it was really obvious, too – all the spectators started booing, it was so bad. After the second match there was an investigation and all eight players were disqualified.

Presenter And what about the competition? Did it stop there?

Tom No, it carried on without the disqualified players.

Presenter And who won the gold medal in the end?

Tom The first Chinese team. They beat the Japanese team in both sets. It was quite a good match, actually!

Presenter Tom, thanks for joining us.

Tom My pleasure.

Presenter Hello and welcome to the show. Now, a lot of research has been done recently into love, what causes it, and what we do to attract someone. Mary is in the studio with us today, and she's going to explain the results of some of these studies to us. Mary, welcome to the show.

Mary Hello.

Presenter Let's start with how to meet new people. Some people like to start a conversation with a person they like by saying something clever or funny. But how useful is this?

Mary Not very useful at all I'm afraid, Jeremy. Research shows that only 7% of attraction has anything to do with what you say. It's the tone and the speed of your voice that makes a difference. This makes up 38% of attraction. But the most important thing of all is body language. This contributes to a massive 55% of attraction.

Presenter So what can we do to improve our body language?

Mary Well, it seems that the best way to make the person you're talking to feel attracted to you is to look into their eyes. An American psychologist did an experiment about this in New York. He got complete strangers to stare into each other's eyes for two minutes without talking. Afterwards many of the couples said that they had strong feelings of attraction to each other, and one of the couples even got married!

Presenter Really? Staring must be the thing to do then! Is there any more advice on body language?

Mary Well it's important to have a relaxed body position. You need to show the other person that you are comfortable being with them. Also, try not to be far away from them. Of course there is a comfortable distance, but try leaning a little closer to them than usual, it will show you're interested, and hold their attention better. Don't forget to watch their body language, too. If they position their body in a similar way to you, it means they find you interesting too. This is called 'mirroring'.

Presenter Is there anything that seems to work well when you're talking to someone you're attracted to?

Mary Not surprisingly, it seems that you're in with a good chance if you smile. Anyone who's ever spoken to someone on the phone will tell you that it's easy to tell when the other person is smiling, because you can hear it in their voice. When talking to a potential partner, a smile will not only affect your tone of voice, keeping it light and fun, but it will also show the other person that you are happy to be with them. And don't forget that a smile is extremely contagious, and before long the other person will be smiling back at you. This will make them feel happier, a feeling which they will quickly connect with you.

Presenter How interesting, and very true! Unfortunately, that's all we've got time for now, Mary, but thank you so much for joining us.

Mary You're welcome.

Tour guide Hello, and welcome to the James Bond tour of London. My name's Colin Granger, and I'm going to be your guide today. Now, the tour lasts for about three hours, and when we've finished, we'll drop you off back here. That'll be at about 4 o'clock.

We're going to start at the birthplace of the man behind the character of James Bond, that's the author Ian Fleming. Does anyone know where, exactly, Ian Fleming was born? No? Well, he was born at 27 Green Street, in one of the richest districts of London called Mayfair. So that's where we're going to go first, to the house where Ian Fleming was born. After that, we're going to drive past the club that Fleming used during the war – I'll point it out to you when we get to it. Then we're going to go to the Bentley showroom that Fleming often used to visit. Fleming loved luxury cars and his favourite car – the Bentley – is still sold there today. After that, we're going to make our way to the casino that inspired the first James Bond novel. Do you know which one that was? Yes, that's right, it was Casino Royale.

After the casino we'll visit the headquarters of the British Secret Service, commonly known as MI6, and which features in many of the James Bond movies. This is an enormous building next to Vauxhall Bridge which is a bridge over the River Thames.

You'll remember this bridge as it appears in the 2012 Bond movie Skyfall. We won't stop there for long, because it might look a bit suspicious. After that, we're going to see two other famous locations from the James Bond films. First, we're going to go to the place where an amusing scene for the film The World Is Not Enough was shot. It's when James Bond is in a boat and he's being chased by another boat. He comes to a bend in the river but he's going too fast. There are two women standing in the road when he turns the corner, but he can't stop. The women are traffic wardens who are putting parking fines on cars. As he goes past, James Bond splashes the traffic wardens with water from the river – they both get really wet! Do you remember that scene? The final location we're going to visit is the Four Seasons hotel in Canary Wharf.

This is where they shot the swimming pool scene from Skyfall, where Daniel Craig as 007 is swimming in a luxury hotel pool at night. It's supposed to be Shanghai but they shot it here in London.

We're going to finish our tour back in Mayfair at the Dukes Hotel. This is where two of the actors who have played James Bond came to celebrate their success. That's Sean Connery in 1962, and Pierce Brosnan in 1995. So, let's get going, then, and head for our first stop, 27 Green Street, the birthplace of Ian Fleming...

Presenter Hello and welcome to today's programme. Have you ever wondered how women made themselves look beautiful in the past? We've got our beauty expert Olivia Johnson with us today, and she's going to tell us all about beauty through the ages. Olivia, where are you going to start?

Olivia Well, I'm going to start with the Egyptians, but it wasn't only the women that used cosmetics at this time. Both Egyptian men and women loved their cosmetics – we know that from the paintings and the powders they left behind. The women wore a powder on their faces to make it lighter, and they painted a big black line around their eyes to make them look bigger. Men put a cream made of fat and oil and other substances on their face to protect it from the sun – a very early version of sun block. Egyptian kings and queens also put colourful powders around their eyes. Their favourite colour was green, which they got from a mineral called malachite.

Presenter How interesting! Who are you going to tell us about next?

Olivia Let's move on to the Ancient Greeks, shall we? Cosmetics were an important part of their life, too. The Ancient Greek idea of beauty was very pale skin, blonde hair and natural make-up. For them, pale skin was a sign of beauty and wealth. The women used a powder made out of a metal called lead to make their faces look lighter.

Presenter You mean lead? The lead that used to be in the pipes carrying the water in our houses?

Olivia That's right.

Presenter But lead is poisonous!

Olivia Yes it is and the ancient Greeks knew lead was poisonous, but it was so important for them to be beautiful that they used it on their face and of course it made them ill.

Presenter I can't believe they used lead on their faces! Anyway, who's next on the list?

Olivia The Romans. They were absolutely obsessed with beauty. A Roman philosopher once wrote: 'A woman without paint is like food without salt', so it's clear that they really believed that women should wear a lot of make-up. The Romans believed that pink on the cheeks was a sign of good health, but they did not apply the make-up themselves. Instead they used their slaves to put on their creams and powders.

Presenter So, the slaves were like modern beauty therapists, then?

Olivia Yes, I suppose you could say that.

Presenter I think I prefer putting on my own make-up. Olivia Johnson, thank you for joining us.

Olivia My pleasure.

7 A)))

Presenter And now onto last night's TV. The highlight for me was a new series on Channel Four called The Unteachables. It's a kind of reality show that aims to find out if it's really true that there are pupils who cannot be taught. Last night we were introduced to the pupils. There are 16 of them altogether and they're all 14 years old. They've all been expelled from schools at least once, and their teachers think they're impossible to teach. Watching the pupils on last night's programme, it isn't hard to see why. We see the group during their introductory weekend at the study camp when they meet each other for the first time. At one point, one of the boys warns that he might set fire to the building. You couldn't imagine how their teacher was going to teach them.

And that's where 40-year old Philip Beadle comes in. Beadle used to be a rock musician, but he gave up music at the age of 32 to become a teacher.

Since then, he has had a very successful career in education. His greatest achievement was when he worked at a school in the centre of London where there were a lot of problems. He worked really hard, and he got the best English results that the school had ever seen – all of his class passed their exam, half of them with top marks. But let me get back to the programme.

In Beadle's first class, he manages to help the pupils learn to trust him by playing a game with the children. In the game, Beadle and the pupils point at each other and say an insult. This might not seem very educational, but Beadle had the attention of all the pupils, and everybody was taking part. And that was the aim of the game.

You might think that Beadle's teaching methods are quite unusual and you'd be right. At one point on last night's programme, he took the pupils to the countryside. They found a field with cows in it, and he made them read poems and plays by Shakespeare to the cows! Remember that these are children who refuse to read in front of other people in a classroom. In another scene, they are in a different field, learning about punctuation. Beadle teaches this by moving about the class and shouting the names of the types of punctuation. The pupils learn by copying him, and it looks like great fun. By the end of the first episode, the pupils are starting to accept their new teacher. Some of them even say he's 'all right'.

I really enjoyed The Unteachables and I really want to know what happens next. If, like me, you are fascinated by the experiment, you'll watch the next episode at the same time next Wednesday. Personally, I can't wait!

Guide Ladies and Gentlemen, could I have your attention please? Thank you, and welcome to Shakespeare's Birthplace in Henley Street. We start our tour here, in the garden of the house. Look at the trees, plants, and flowers all around you. All of them were mentioned by Shakespeare in his plays. Now, this is also the perfect place to look closely at the outside of the house. It was probably built sometime in the early sixteenth century, as we can see from the style of the house. The walls are made of wood and clay, and the house has two floors. This house was Shakespeare's home from when he was born until he was 33, which means that much of his life took place here. He was born in 1564 and spent all of his childhood here. He got married in 1582 and his wife, Anne Hathaway, came to live with him here after they got married. And all three of their children were born here. So, you see, the house played an extremely important role in Shakespeare's life. Now, as you're walking through the house, I'd like you to pay special attention to the windows. Many famous people have visited Shakespeare's Birthplace, and in the past, they were allowed to write their names on the glass. See if you can recognize any of the signatures – there are a lot of famous ones, from Charles Dickens to Winston Churchill! Right, if you'd like to come this way then, please? We're going to start on the ground floor and the first room we're going to visit is the Great Hall.

Are you all in? Well, as you can see, the name of this room 'the Great Hall' is a bit of an exaggeration, actually. As you can see, it's not particularly big. In the sixteenth century, a hall meant a room, rather than what it means today. However, the fact that the house had a hall at all shows that the Shakespeare family were quite wealthy. This is where the whole family came to eat the main meal of the day together. The furniture is as it probably was in Shakespeare's time. If you look at the fireplace over there, you can see the kind of things that the family used for cooking.

Now we're going to walk to a room at the back of the house, which was used by Shakespeare's father. Please follow me.

Now, Shakespeare's father, John, was a glover, which means he made gloves. He owned his own company, which is where the family got their money from as the company was quite successful. This room is where he made the gloves. When you're ready, we'll go back to the Great Hall and climb the original staircase. At the top, is the room where William Shakespeare, the greatest English writer of all time, was born.

Rosie Hi Graham! How was your trip to Spain?

Graham It was great, thanks. But the flight was awful! In fact I've made a complaint to the airline

Rosie What was the problem?

Graham Well, as you know, some low-cost airlines don't give you a seat number when you check in, which means that there's always a mad rush to get on the plane. I find all this so annoying, that I usually pay for Speedy Boarding – you know, when you pay extra to get on the plane first. You just get in the queue when they call the flight, and then they tell the passengers with Speedy Boarding to come to the front and you get on the plane first.

Rosie So what went wrong?

Graham Well, on the flight out to Madrid, I was sitting at the gate waiting to be called to board first, and nothing happened. I don't know if they forgot about Speedy Boarding or what, but they didn't call us to the front of the queue. That meant I had to board the plane with everyone else – in fact, I was one of the last to get on. As you can imagine, I wasn't very pleased.

Rosie So, what did you do?

Graham I emailed the airline explaining what had happened. I told them that I had paid for Speedy Boarding on both of my flights, but I had only received the service on one of them. I asked them, very politely, to give back the money I had paid for the Speedy Boarding. It was about £10 at the time, that's about €12.

Rosie Did you get a response?

Graham Yes, I did actually. They replied quite quickly.

Rosie And did they give you your money back?

Graham Well, no, they didn't. I had a very nice message from a man in customer services saying he was sorry that this had happened, but he didn't mention giving me a refund.

Rosie Typical! They never do, do they?

Graham Ah, but wait a minute – I haven't finished the story yet.

Rosie Oh. Go on then.

Graham Well, I spoke to a colleague in Madrid, and he said something similar had happened to him. He said not to give up, and send them another email. So I did, but this time the tone was much stronger and less polite. And it worked! They refunded the money I had spent on the Speedy Boarding ticket, and gave me a 50% discount on my next flight with them.

Rosie That's great!

Speaker 1 When I was about 15, I got a part-time job in a supermarket. The job was in the cash office, so I had quite a lot of responsibility. I had to collect the money from the tills, count it, and put it in the safe for the security people to collect the next morning. I was still at school at the time, so I worked for a couple of hours on a Friday evening and all day on Saturdays. At Christmas I did more hours because I had more time and there were more customers. The girls in the office were great fun, so the job wasn't boring at all. I did it for about three years, until I left because I needed more time to study for my final exams at school.

Speaker 2 I studied German at university and at the end of my first year I went to Germany to practise my German. I found a job in a restaurant almost as soon as I arrived. The job was washing dishes, which I thought was going to be easy. Unfortunately, I was wrong. There was a machine in the kitchen that washed the plates and glasses and things like that. But my job was to clean the pots and pans that the chef had used. The saucepans were always completely black and it used to take me hours to get everything clean. I didn't enjoy working there very much and I was really happy when I had learnt enough German so that I could stop working there.

Speaker 3 I don't know if you can call this a job, but I did get paid for it, even if it was only five pounds! When I was a teenager, I used to look after my cousins when my aunt and uncle wanted to go out. The children were a lot younger than me, so I had to babysit for them. I didn't do it every weekend, but it was probably about once a month.

My uncle used to pick me up at about seven and take me back to their house. I had to bath the children, give them their dinner, and play with them for an hour or so, before they went to bed. They were no trouble at all to look after and I absolutely loved being with them!

Speaker 4 My dad's a painter, and so the summer after I finished school, I went to help him for a few weeks. At the time, my dad's company had a contract to paint all the exterior doors and windows of some houses on a new estate. The weather was great – not too hot and not too cold, so I didn't really mind it. The work was quite tiring, because I spent most of the day climbing up and down a ladder, but I earned quite a lot of money that summer. But the best thing was spending some time with my dad and his mates – we had a really good laugh!

Speaker 5 One of the first jobs I ever did was in a food processing company in Manchester. I was a student at the time, and I needed a temporary job during the holidays. Fortunately, the job was only for two weeks, because it was really unpleasant. The worst day was when we were packaging hamburgers. I had to stand on the production line and count the burgers into groups of five. Later, someone further down the line put the burgers in a box. The problem was that the burgers were frozen and we weren't allowed any gloves. This meant that I had to pick up the ice-cold burgers with my hands. I've never had such cold fingers in all my life!

9 A)))

Speaker 1 I know a lot of people who are superstitious when they see somebody standing on top of a ladder in the street and they don't want to walk underneath it. Actually, I'm one of those people! Walking under the ladder is supposed to give you bad luck, so I never do it. Whenever I come across a ladder, I always walk around it – even if I have to walk out into the road. Come to think of it, that's probably worse than walking under the ladder, because I could get hit by a car, but there's no way that I would ever walk under the ladder.

Speaker 2 I don't know if any other countries have this superstition, but where I live, you have to be very careful when you buy a new pair of shoes. Apparently, it's bad luck to put the shoes on your dining room table. This goes back to something that people did in the past when somebody died – in fact, it was the families of miners in the north of England who originally did this. The family always bought new clothes to dress the dead person in, and this included buying new shoes. So, if you leave your new shoes on the table, some people think this could bring bad luck.

Speaker 3 In England and Ireland, some people are very superstitious about going up or down the stairs. If you're going down the stairs, it's bad luck to pass someone who is coming up the stairs and the same thing happens the other way round. Someone once told me the reason for this. A long time ago, people carried swords so you had to be very careful of the people around you. If somebody passed you on the stairs you couldn't see them because they were behind you. That meant that they could turn round and kill you with their sword without you realizing.

Speaker 4 Some people say that if you open an umbrella in the house it will rain on you, i.e. you'll have bad luck. Personally, I would never open an umbrella inside my house. To start with, it's pretty impractical, because umbrellas are quite big. Also, they're pretty dangerous, and it's quite easy to knock something over and break it with an umbrella. I suppose that's why umbrellas are associated with bad luck, really, because things have gone wrong in the past.

Speaker 5 Here in Germany, if someone has an exam or is going for a job interview, we wrap the fingers of our right hand around our thumb and say 'I'm holding my thumb for you'. I have some Brazilian friends who, when they wish people luck, make a similar sign, but they push their thumb between the first two fingers. Maybe the two are connected in some way. I know that in England people cross their fingers and say 'Fingers crossed' when they wish people luck, which is quite similar.

Receptionist Good afternoon. Can I help you?

Guest Oh, hello. Yes – I need to ask you about wifi access in the hotel. I've got some work to do while I'm here, so I'm going to need an internet connection.

Receptionist Well, there's a wifi hotspot in the lobby of the hotel and all of the rooms have wifi.

Guest Great. And how much does it cost?

Receptionist It's free in the lobby, but we charge for the wifi access in the rooms. Are you interested in our standard connection or would you prefer our advanced service?

Guest Um, what's the difference?

Receptionist The standard service is available for a flat fee of five pounds per day. However, it can be a bit slow because everyone in the hotel uses it. We have a higher level service for our guests who need a faster and more reliable connection.

Guest And how much is that?

Receptionist It's five pence per minute.

Guest That could get quite expensive if I use it all evening.

Receptionist Not really, sir. The maximum charge is twenty pounds for 24 hours.

Guest I see. So how would that work? Would I have to pay twenty pounds today and another twenty pounds tomorrow?

Receptionist No. The 24-hour period begins from when you checked in.

Guest Great! I'd like the advanced service, then. Oh, and one more question. What do I need to log on to your wifi?

Receptionist Just a moment. Could you give me your name and room number?

Guest It's Gray. Barry Gray. I'm in room 302.

Receptionist Thank you, Mr Gray. Here's your wifi pack which has the name of the connection here, and here's your password. Please try and keep it safe so that nobody else can use it. You checked in at ten past three today, so the connection will last until the same time tomorrow afternoon.

Guest Great. Is that all I need, then?

Receptionist Yes, it is.

Guest Thanks a lot for your help.

Receptionist You're welcome.

Presenter Welcome back to the show.

Now, a new exhibition opens today at the Science Museum, and all of the exhibits are everyday objects that we couldn't live without. Charlotte Heath who has been to the exhibition, is with us today to tell us more about it. Welcome to the show, Charlotte.

Charlotte Thank you.

Presenter So what sort of objects can you see in the exhibition? Are we talking about modern gadgets like smartphones and tablet computers here?

Charlotte No, no, not at all. This exhibition is all about the little or important things we have in our house and use every day. We use them so much that we've probably forgotten, or don't even realize, that someone actually invented them.

Presenter Such as?

Charlotte Well, a good example is the container we use to keep food in: the tin can. But I bet you don't know how it was invented?

Presenter No, I don't.

Charlotte Well, there's a very interesting story behind it. It was the French leader Napoleon Bonaparte who was responsible for this one. In 1809, he was very worried about how to feed all his soldiers when they were away from home and so he organized a competition to try to get ideas for how to solve the problem. The first prize was 12,000 francs and the competition was won by a French chef who had the idea of using glass jars to store food. A year later, a British manufacturer, Peter Durand, improved the design by using thin sheets of metal to make the container which became what we now call a tin. The only problem was that he used lead in the tin, which as you know is poisonous. Several people died after eating food from his tins.

Presenter How unfortunate! Now, Charlotte, we've got time for one more story before the news headlines

Charlotte Right. I'll tell you about the teabag, then. In the past, if you wanted to buy tea, then you had to buy the leaves in a big box. To make a drink of tea, you would put the leaves in water, and you would often find small pieces of tea leaves at the bottom of your cup. Anyway, in 1908, an American tea salesman called Thomas Sullivan had the bright idea of putting the tea in very small bags to give to his customers to try. Sullivan thought that customers would take the tea out of the bags in order to try it, but some of the customers didn't. They found it more convenient to put the bag into hot water, without actually opening it. So, teabags weren't really invented by a company; it was the tea drinkers who came up with the idea!

Presenter What an incredible story! And the Everyday Inventions Exhibition is on at the Science Museum until Sunday 25th July. Charlotte, is that right?

Charlotte Yes. The museum is open from 10 to six every day, so you've got no excuse not to go.

Presenter Thanks for joining us, Charlotte. And now it's time for the news headlines with...

The next morning when my servant Paddock arrived, I introduced him to Captain Digby. I explained that the Captain was an important man in the army, but he had been working too hard and needed rest and quiet. Then I went out, leaving them both in the flat. When I returned about lunchtime, the doorman told me that the gentleman in flat 15 had killed himself. I went up to the top floor, had a few words with the police, and was able to report to Scudder that his plan had been successful. The police believed that the dead man was Scudder, and that he had killed himself. Scudder was very pleased.

For the first two days in my flat, he was very calm, and spent all his time reading and smoking, and writing in a little black notebook. But after that he became more restless and nervous. It was not his own danger that he worried about, but the success of his plan to prevent the murder of Karolides. One night he was very serious.

'Listen, Hannay,' he said. 'I think I must tell you some more about this business. I would hate to get killed without leaving someone else to carry on with my plan.'

I didn't listen very carefully. I was interested in Scudder's adventures, but I wasn't very interested in politics. I remember that he said Karolides was only in danger in London. He also mentioned a woman called Julia Czechenyi.

The next evening I had to go out. I was meeting a man I had known in Africa for dinner. When I returned to the flat, I was surprised to see that the study light was out. I wondered if Scudder had gone to bed early. I turned on the light, but there was nobody there. Then I saw something in the corner that made my blood turn cold.

Scudder was lying on his back. There was a long knife through his heart, pinning him to the floor.
