Communicative competence of language identity is relevant research in modern Linguistics and linguistics-related sciences. Definition of communicative competence and study its structure represents a specific theoretical and practical importance for the understanding of the process of acquisition of non-native language secondary linguistic personality. The article defines communicative competence and how this research object.