Other information

This invitation is according to the 13th Italian Research Conference on digital libraries holding on 26-27 January 2017 at Department of Ingegneria "Enzo Ferrari" (<http://ircdl2017.unimore.it/>) Information on University of Modena and Reggio Emilia:

Italian universities are divided into Departments. Departments organize and define the academic activities of degree courses, promote, manage and carry out research and organize doctoral (Ph.D.) programs. All Departments of the University of Modena and Reggio Emilia have adopted the semester system. Lessons for the first semester usually run from the end of September to mid December; lessons for the second semester run from the end of February to mid May. The examination periods are roughly from the beginning of January to the end of February (first semester), and from the beginning of June to the end of July (second semester). Lectures take place from Monday to Friday, in the mornings and afternoons, and are generally delivered in Italian. (<http://www.international.unimore.it>)
