Creation of professionally focused manuals on Russian is an important problem of training in languages in higher education institution now. Experience of authors of this grant in this aspect is important and interesting.

Linguistic basis of a grant is consideration of the phenomena of lexical, grammatical, syntactic and semantic coordination at the levels of the word, phrase, offer, text. Such conceptual foreshortening is represented modern, perspective and almost important.

The structure of a grant is thought over and reflects all main aspects of consideration of the scientific text in a didactic foreshortening.

Language and speech material moves functionally, is dosed, in schemes and tables convenient for judgment, storing and generalization.

Tasks are made from simple to difficult, from known to the unknown. For performance of tasks on absolutely new for trained material the algorithm of actions is given, ready versions of answers for comparison are in certain cases offered.

The grant allows to form competences, key for language education: linguistic, communicative, subject.
