

Summary

In this article considers main forms of youth participation in politics. There are social research, which confirms thesis that youth is most active social group in politics. According to our research, deepening of youth participation in politics will contribute to growing of civil society.