The monograph is devoted to the issues of a single mechanism for the implementation of the “four freedoms” laid down in the common market of the EAEU. Authors analyzed the basic principles of the functioning of the single labor market, as well as internal exemptions, restrictions and barriers applied by the states parties, analyzed on the basis of the current Treaty of the Creation of the EAEU, its annexes, the legislation of the states parties and international experience of similar integration associations on the functioning of the single market, identified existing obstacles to the implementation of the “four freedoms”, their legal nature and the possibility of minimizing the occurrences.

For teachers, doctoral students, undergraduates, students and all interested in the subject.
