E 66 Tourism of Kazakhstan: a textbook / Group of authors, edited by S.R.Erdavletov – Almaty, Bastau, 2015. – 464 p.

ISBN 978-601-281-163-6

The textbook covers the study of a wide range of issues related to the development of tourism in Kazakhstan. It describes the main categories and concepts of geography, tourist and recreational resources, as well as prerequisites for the development of tourism, tourist facilities and tourist traffic with the tentative characteristics of the main types of tourism and tourist routes. The book describes the most important tourist areas of the country, i.e. the territories which stand out for their resources and attract flows of tourists.

The book is intended for geographers, economists, ecologists, demographers, and teachers, university students and anyone interested in tourism.
