THE PROBLEM OF MYTHOLOGY IN THE WORKS OF N. GOGOL AND W. IRVING

In the world of literature there are a lot of instances when the mythological image becomes a source of a literary work. One of the problems, which many researchers are interested in, is a problem of formation of the mythological image in a literary work. So, a vivid example of mythological creature's in a literary work is the image of a mermaid. We meet the mermaid in the works of Zhukovsky V.A., Dostoevsky A.S., Nabokov V.V., Goethe J.W., Andersen H.Ch. and also in the pages of Gogol's novel "May the Ninth" or "The Drowned Maiden".

In modern consciousness and art the mermaid is perceived first of all like a charming belle with a fish tail, who lives in the water and loves singing to lure young men. But Gogol writes about a mermaid: "The mermaid was sitting on the big stone, her body was very pale, almost white." The mermaid's paleness explained so, that one hand she usually lives in water, there isn't daytime sunlight at the bottom of water. On the other hand, Gogol's mermaid is a dead woman, and so the writer presents her to be not from the story, which was told by the main character of the novel, Levko, we found out that a mermaid was drowned girl young.

It should notice that in the works of Gogol mainly malicious essences get into world of people, and are met with their facilitators like as evil wizards and witches. Occasionally we meet some benevolent essences from another world, nevertheless evil essences from another world are much more than the good ones.

The common features of the writings of Gogol and B. Irving are explained by their appeal to magic. The works of both writers are also characterized by the separation of the world into "our", that is human's world, and the "foreigner's living world", that is the arcane, mysterious, sinister world. For example, in Gogol's "Viy" novel. In describing the church it was repeatedly indicated on the lifelessness, the lack of space around it. It is also gloomy and sinister inside of church. When Homa arrived there, he suddenly started to think about the appearance of "people from the dead." In this case the church acts as the border of worlds, especially where it is a struggle of life and death, where it is possible an invasion of "our" and chthonic world.

Gogol's mythology of "two world" can be observed in the novel "The Adelantado of the Seven Cities", where the hero swims in the sea in search of the island of St. Brendan. This story goes back to the ancient legends, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout Middle Ages, and the island of St. Brendan acted in beliefs to be as "paradise on earth" throughout still, the hero falls during a storm with thought of death. Author of legends placed the island of St. Brendan to the Canary Islands, which were considered like the border of the human world in the Middle Ages.

Mythological two world implemented in the motive of the magic sleep in Gogol's "May Night, or the Drowned Maiden" and Irving's "Dolph Heyliger: a story from Bracebridge Hall." It should be noted the similarities in plot's construction that the hero falls asleep in a mysterious legendary place. So, in the novel Dolph Heyliger is offered to spend the night in a haunted house. In the story there are details which indicate that this house is a symbol of the world's borders. It seems that it is lifeless during the day, but at night it comes to life the ghosts of previous owners. In addition, it is an abandoned well near the house. And the wells are often a symbol of the human and otherworldly life in the myths.

The common plot of motive in the works of Gogol and Irving is detected various the modifications of a devil's image. So, Irving's tempter of Tom Walker is the true spirit of evil, which kindles the feuds among people, patronizes the slave traders, moneymakers and thieves.

Gogol's images of Basavyuk and moneymakers in the novel "The Portrait" are complicated. Basavyuk, the main hero, is called "demon man" and then "the devil in human form." Tempters in Gogol's works don't rise the path of evil; they raise the path of evil; they are sinister and repulsive. Also it is worth to note the appeal of these two writers to the image of moneymaker.

Traces of Irving's writing's influence can be found in Gogol's novel "The Portrait", many details date back to Irving's novels like "The Adventure of the Mysterious Picture" and "Story of the Young Italian." For the first time we can notice that the descriptions of a mysterious portrait are skillfully written, but then we find out that they cause the disgust for the readers. The details in Gogol description of portrait like extremely lively eyes and his gaze, which the hero feels, even covering his face are similar to Irving's writings. The descriptions of nightmares and the psychological state of the Chartkov, reminds about Irving's novel. In the story of the American writer's portrait the hero seems to be like a living person, but Gogol's Chartkov sees that the money lender is coming off the canvas and approaches him.

The following motives and images of the story "The Portrait" reminds of Irving's works: 1) the artist, who improves his skill at the monastery; 2) the artist, who raises in the path of evil; 3) the portrait, which has mystical properties.

The motive of a mysterious portrait in Gogol's and Irving's novels is closely related to the theme of romantic art. Romantic cult of art and its mighty power were closely to both writers. The image of the mysterious portrait, in which the soul of a depicting man continues to live is typical for the era of Romanticism and in general it got a vivid expression in both writer's works.
